CABERNET SAUVIGNON

PALATE
Cool climate sites such as some of our high altitude vineyards tend to produce wines showing mint and eucalypt type characters.

VINIFICATION
Cool Woods combines fruit from several regions and uses subtle maturation with good oak to create a well balanced fruit driven style that can be paired well with food, or simply conversation and a few laughs.

WINEMAKER'S COMMENT
South Australia produces many of Australia's most respected Cabernet Sauvignon wines and much of this has to do with climate and soil conditions throughout the state's winemaking regions.

REGION
Cool Woods wines are made to be enjoyed with friends and family – the wines are sourced from our own cool climate vineyards, and supplemented with fruit from neighbouring cool climate regions.

The Cool Woods label is a representation of the view from our cellar door on a typically crisp and foggy Winter morning. The old gums are the first thing that can be seen as the thick fog clears. Standing alongside our vineyard, these old trees would have seen some changes over the years – from early settlers arriving, to a working dairy and now a premium cool climate winery.
